Brasenose College, University of Oxford

Brasenose College

Founded in 1509, Brasenose College has a long and interesting history. The College has had the reputation of being one of the wealthiest in Oxford. Brasenose is situated in the heart of the city, overlooking one of the most beautiful squares in the world and is a short walk from University departments and libraries, as well as shops, pubs, cafes and markets. The College has a long tradition of academic excellence and welcomes students from all backgrounds.

Famous alumni of Brasenose include:

Henry Addington (Prime Minister of the United Kingdom 1801–1804) Kate Allen (head of Amnesty International) Jeffrey Archer (former politician and notable writer) David Cameron (Prime Minister of the United Kingdom 2010–2016) Richard Cavendish (historian) Olivia Grant (actress) Michael Kosterlitz (physicist and winner of the Noel Prize in Physics) Malcolm Turnbull (Prime Minister of Australia 2015–2018) William Golding (novelist and playwright and author of Lord of the Flies) Judge Robert Dow (United States District Court for Chicago) – King's friend

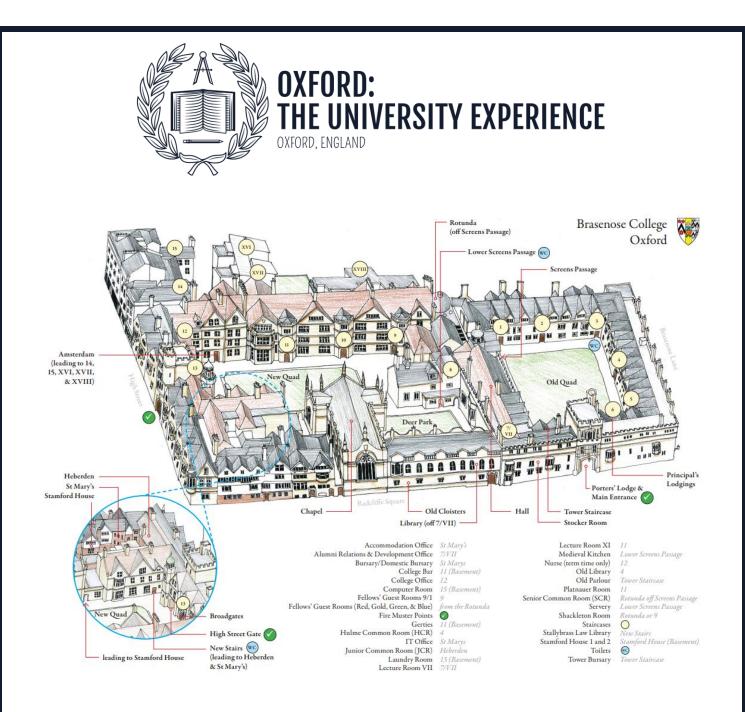

Fun Brasenose College Facts

-The College's unusual name refers to a twelfth century 'brazen' (brass or bronze) door knocker in the shape of a nose

-The college library reportedly inspired C.S. Lewis's description of the library in "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe." Lewis, a former student at University College, frequented

Brasenose's library during his time at Oxford. See if you can find the door and location! -Rhino Sculpture: On the rooftop of one of the college buildings stands a large sculpture of a rhinoceros. The origins and meaning of this sculpture remain a mystery, adding to its intrigue and making it a distinctive feature of the college skyline.

-Statue of Old Joe: In the college's quad, there's a statue of a man commonly referred to as "Old Joe." The identity of this figure and the reason for his presence in the quad are shrouded in mystery!

Lodging at Brasenose College

Dining in Hall

Full English Breakfast | Sometimes also called a 'fry-up', the full English breakfast consists of fried eggs, sausages, back bacon, tomatoes, mushrooms, fried bread and often a slice of white or black pudding (similar to bloodwurst). It is accompanied by tea or coffee and hot, buttered toast.May 4, 2015

Banquet | Three course seated, served dinner in the Dining Hall (all meals will be held in the Brasenose Dining Hall)

Passing of the Port | One of the wine trade's most cherished traditions is the rule that port, particularly a decanter of vintage port, must be passed round a table from the right hand of diners to the left.

High Table | The high table is a table for the use of fellows and their guests. This table is usually in a slightly elevated location in the dining hall and the students eat below.

The Turf Tavern | The Turf Tavern is also where future Australian Prime Minister Bob Hawke set a Guinness World Record for consuming a yard glass of ale in 11 seconds in 1954. Other public figures who have dined or drunk at the tavern include Richard Burton, Elizabeth Taylor, Tony Blair, CS Lewis, Stephen Hawking, Margaret Thatcher and Bill Clinton.

The King's Arms | The famous Kings Arms is the oldest pub in Oxford, built in 1607 and still standing in its original position. Loved by Oxford scholars and tourists alike, renowned for fine cask ales, hearty homemade food and our resident ghost. (King and Shenette favorite pub)

Blenheim Palace

Blenheim Palace was built in the early 18th-century, as a gift from Queen Anne to the 1st Duke of Marlborough, John Churchill, the military commander who led troops to a huge victory over the French in the Battle of Blenheim (13 August 1704), in the War of the Spanish Succession. The Duke was gifted the ruined Royal Manor of Woodstock, and £240,000 to build a grand new house in honour of his achievements.

Over its near-300 years of history, Blenheim Palace has been a family home, mausoleum and national monument, but it's arguably most famous as the birthplace and home of Sir Winston Churchill, England's Prime Minister between 1940-45 and 1951-55. Churchill even proposed to his wife, Clementine Hozier, in the grounds of the Palace. Today Blenheim Palace is the home of the 12th Duke and Duchess of Marlborough.

BLENHEIM PALACE FACTS

-Movie Central – many exciting films and TV dramas have been filmed there, including some popular favourites; Spectre 007, The legend of Tarzan, The Avengers, Black Beauty, Harry Potter, The Order of the Pheonix, Cinderella and most recently The BFG movie

-The inner roof, located at the entrance of the palace, features paintings of the eyes of the 9th Dukes' wife. It is widely known that the three blue eyes are paintings of the Duke's Wife however it remains a mystery who the brown eyes officially belong to

-It's the only building in England other than royal buildings to be lucky enough to own the title of 'palace'

-The building was once converted into a hospital in order to nurse wounded soldiers during the First World War

-Blenheim Palace was appointed by UNESCO as a world heritage site in 1987

"At Blenheim, I took two very important decisions; to be born and to marry." -Sir Winston Churchill

Harry Potter and New College

Oxford, England, served as a significant filming location for several Harry Potter movies. Here are some key spots:

Christ Church College: The Great Hall in Christ Church College was the inspiration for Hogwarts' Great Hall. It was also used for some interior shots in the movies.

New College: The cloisters at New College were used as the Hogwarts' corridors in various films.

Botanic Gardens

Oldest Botanic Garden in Great Britain: Established in 1621, the Oxford Botanic Garden is the oldest botanic garden in Great Britain.

Collections: The garden is home to over 6,000 plant species, including rare and endangered plants from around the world. It features various thematic collections, such as medicinal plants, edible plants, and native British flora.

Historic Walled Garden: The garden is enclosed by ancient walls dating back to the 17th century, providing a tranquil and secluded setting for visitors to explore and enjoy nature.

The University Church of St. Mary the Virgin

University Church Clock Tower

The tower is the oldest part of the church still visible today. It dates from 1280 and is decorated with beautifully carved gargoyles and grotesques. The 127 steps up to the top lead you past the Clore Old Library and the historic bell ringing chamber. The view is breathtaking at the top.

The University Church of St. Mary the Virgin

The University Church of St Mary the Virgin holds a special place in the history of Oxford University. It was here that the first library of the university was established, and legend has it that the first gatherings of Masters and students were held here as early as the 12th century. More dramatically, St. Mary's was the site of the trial of the "Oxford Martyrs", when Bishops Latimer and Ridley, and Archbishop Cranmer, were tried for heresy in 1555. One of the nave pillars has a notch cut into the stone. This was cut to support a wooden platform during the bishop's trial.

Christ Church

Church is the college's third name-When Christ Church was founded in the sixteenth century, it was actually called Cardinal College. It was named after Thomas Wolsey, who was both Cardinal Archbishop of York and Lord Chancellor of England at the time. After Wolsey's death in 1530, the college was taken over by none other than King Henry VIII and he (imaginatively) renamed it King Henry VIII's College. It was only in 1546 after the break with the Church of Rome and the dissolution of the monasteries that the college was renamed as Christ Church.

King Charles held court at Christ Church-Christ Church dining hall was once used by King Charles I as a seat of Parliament during the English Civil War in the early seventeenth century. The dining hall here has been replicated in many other universities and institutions globally and, perhaps most notably, as the Great Hall at Hogwarts in the Harry Potter films.

Christ Church Cathedral is one of the smallest in England. Tom Tower was designed by Sir Christopher Wren. The iconic Tom Tower which stands over the front entrance to Christ Church was designed by architect Sir Christopher Wren. He also designed St Paul's Cathedral in London. Wren himself was once a student at Oxford University.

Graffiti-As you approach the "Harry Potter steps" at Christ Church, which lead up to the dining hall, you will notice a curious form of graffiti on a door to the right. On an old brown door, there is the word "Peel", with each letter formed out of very small circles. This is the oldest form of graffiti on record and the door was marked in protest against the Sir Robert Peel who was the British Prime Minister in the early nineteenth century.

Tom Tower chimes 101 times every evening. Every evening at 9:05pm , Tom Tower chimes 101 times in honour of the 101 first students to ever attend Christ Church.

Alice in Wonderland was real... and lived at Christ Church!

Lewis Carroll attended Christ Church at Oxford and this is where he found inspiration for Alice in Wonderland. The character of Alice is based on a girl called Alice Liddell, who was the daughter of the Dean of Christ Church at the time. At Christ Church you'll find a piece of stained glass in the Great Hall with a picture of Alice.

Notable Alumni include...Over the years, many famous figures have studied at Christ Church including Lewis Carroll, John Locke, King Edward VII, W H Auden, Robert Hooke, 13 prime ministers, Albert Einstein, William Penn, John Wesley, and many, many more.

Worcester College

Foundation: Worcester College was founded in 1714 by Sir Thomas Cookes, a Worcestershire baronet, making it one of the newer colleges at the University of Oxford.

Gardens and Grounds: The college is renowned for its picturesque gardens and expansive grounds, which include beautifully landscaped gardens, meadows, and a lake. The gardens are open to visitors at certain times of the year.

Famous Alumni: Worcester College has produced numerous notable alumni, including British Prime Minister Boris Johnson, actor Hugh Grant, author Richard Adams (known for "Watership Down"), and Nobel Prize-winning physicist Sir Roger Penrose.

Guest Speaker for Dinner

Canon Brian Mountford was Vicar of the University Church, Oxford, from 1986–2016 and a Supernumerary Fellow St Hilda's College, Oxford. He retains an ecclesiastical title as Canon Emeritus of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford. He was previously Fellow and Chaplain of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge and Vicar of Southgate in North London. In 2016 he was awarded an MBE 'for services to ecclesiastical heritage'.

He is now 'Publisher at Large' for the 'Christian Alternative' imprint of John Hunt Publishing, UK and in that role he looks to publish books that think outside the box of traditional Christianity. Some weeks he conduct services and speak in rural Oxfordshire churches and even plays the organ when called upon. In Trinity Term 2022 he was Acting Chaplain of Corpus Christ College, Oxford.

Tours and Information

Museum of Natural History

Founded in 1860 as the centre for scientific study at the University of Oxford, the Museum of Natural History holds the University's internationally significant collections of geological and zoological specimens. Housed in a stunning example of neo-Gothic architecture, the museum's growing collections underpin a broad programme of natural environment research, teaching and public engagement. Among its most famous features are the Oxfordshire dinosaurs, the only soft tissue remains of a dodo, and the swifts in the tower. The museum building was designed with the Pre-Raphaelite precept of 'truth to nature', and has long been an intersection for interdisciplinary learning. Famously, the first public event hosted at the museum was the Great Debate on evolution between Bishop Wilberforce and T. H. Huxley following the publication of Charles Darwin's 'On the Origin of Species'.

The Pitt Rivers Museum

The Pitt Rivers Museum in Oxford was founded in 1884, the museum is named after its benefactor, Lieutenant-General Augustus Pitt Rivers, whose pioneering approach to collecting emphasized the comparative study of material culture from around the globe. Today, the Pitt Rivers houses one of the finest ethnographic collections in the world, encompassing over half a million objects spanning continents and centuries. What sets the Pitt Rivers apart is its unique display method, with objects arranged thematically rather than geographically or chronologically. This unconventional approach invites visitors to make unexpected connections and explore the universal themes that unite humanity across time and space. As a living testament to the diversity and resilience of human cultures, the Pitt Rivers Museum invites us to celebrate our shared humanity while honoring the rich tapestry of differences that make our world so extraordinary.

The Ashmolean Museum

The Ashmolean Museum, nestled in the heart of Oxford, stands as a beacon of art, archaeology, and culture, captivating visitors with its diverse collections spanning millennia of human creativity and ingenuity. Founded in 1683, the Ashmolean is the world's first university museum, named after Elias Ashmole, whose generous donation of his cabinet of curiosities formed the nucleus of its holdings. Over the centuries, the museum has expanded exponentially, encompassing a vast array of artifacts and artworks from around the globe. Step inside, and you'll embark on a journey through time and space, encountering treasures ranging from ancient Egyptian mummies to Renaissance masterpieces, from classical sculptures to contemporary installations. The museum's galleries offer a window into the rich tapestry of human civilization, inviting visitors to explore the wonders of art, history, and culture.

Beyond its collections, the Ashmolean serves as a dynamic hub of research and learning, fostering interdisciplinary inquiry and dialogue among scholars, students, and the public. Its vibrant program of exhibitions, lectures, and events offers a wealth of opportunities for engagement and discovery, inspiring curiosity and creativity in visitors of all ages.
